WE NEED YOUR HELP!!!!

After 10 years, our food sponsor, Blue Buffalo has decided to stop helping rescues directly and instead, is donating to human food banks!

This is leaving rescuers like Regal Dane in a desperate situation. We currently have over 110 Danes in rescue, and we have very little food left (approx. 25 bags)!

WE DESPERATELY NEED YOUR HELP WITH FOOD DONATIONS

Below are the types of food we need. If you could sponsor 1 bag of food per month, Regal Dane Rescue would be forever GRATEFUL – and so would the Danes!!

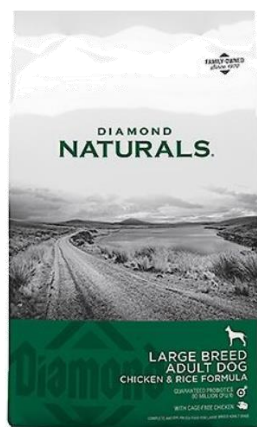

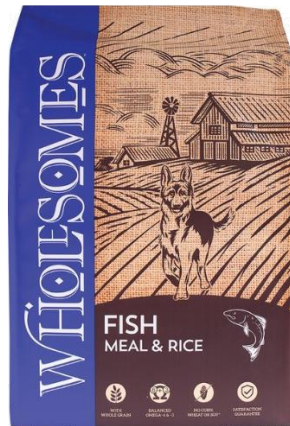

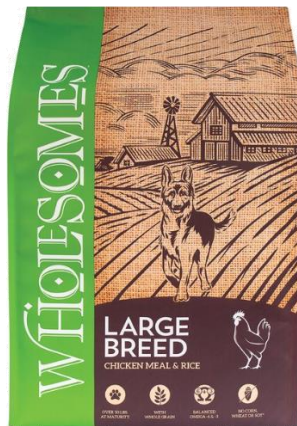

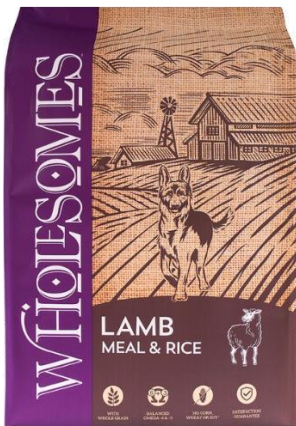

Most of these foods can be purchased at Chewy, Tractor Supply or Costco. If you're local, we can provide drop-off locations, or in some cases, we may be able to pick up, or have it delivered to us at:

What Plants are in Your Arizona Yard?

We thank our reader Erika for bringing this topic to our attention as it is an important one!

There are dangers around our yard that we are always on the lookout for. Sharp edges, low fences and unlatched gates are some of the common ones. But there are also common plants in Arizona that can cause harm to your furry friend.

Many dogs get curious, and many dogs love to chew on things to help them solve that curiosity. However, our four-legged friends aren't going to know what is safe to chew on, and what will cause them harm.

Some signs that your dog has gotten into something they shouldn't have can vary from milder symptoms like gastrointestinal upset (vomiting, diarrhea, or excessive drool) to more severe symptoms like organ failure and sometimes in the worst case, even death.

Some toxic Arizona plants to keep out of your yard and away from your pets are (pictures on right):

- |                      |                               |
|----------------------|-------------------------------|
| #1 - Azalea          | #7 - Eucalyptus               |
| #2 - Castor bean     | #8 - Lantana                  |
| #3 - Century plant   | #9 - Mexican Bird of Paradise |
| #4 - Chinaberry tree | #10 - Oleander                |
| #5 - Cyclamen        | #11 - Sago Palm               |
| #6 - Daffodils       | #12 - Tulips                  |

It is also helpful to keep something printed out and on hand. There is a much longer list than the examples we provided here. You can find a printable PDF of this list on the Arizona Poison and Drug Information Center website at this link:

POISONOUS PLANTS

They also list safe plants that you can have around your pets. Some of these include:

- |                    |                |
|--------------------|----------------|
| * African Violets  | * Jade Plant   |
| * Begonias         | * Marigolds    |
| * Boston Fern      | * Orchids      |
| * Christmas Cactus | * Palms        |
| * Coleus           | * Roses        |
| * Hoya             | * Spider Plant |

Keep your furry friends safe and yourself educated! Make sure to do your research on your plants before you purchase and bring them home!
